

Windchill® Business Reporting

Report on and analyze product and process information in real time, across the enterprise

Windchill reporting capabilities provide real-time access to the information you need to analyze and optimize your product development processes. Preconfigured for Windchill, and utilizing the proven, industry-leading Cognos Business Intelligence (BI) reporting framework, Windchill Business Reporting modules makes the report development and distribution process faster and easier.

The Windchill business reporting solutions lets you rapidly develop and distribute product and process information across the enterprise. Decision-makers can easily visualize trends, patterns and relationships with graphical and drill-down reports of key performance indicators (KPIs).

Key Benefits

Improve Decision-Making and Process Efficiency

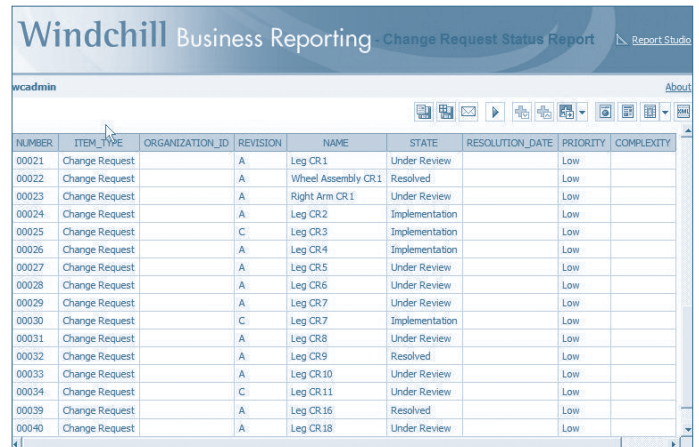

The visual and graphical representation of real-time information helps you quickly identify product or process-related problems as well as optimize your product development processes. Drill-down reports not only help you immediately focus in on the source of a problem, but also help you solve it.

Realize Superior ROI

Out-of-the-box integration between Cognos and Windchill means you'll have this solution up and running quickly, achieving immediate results. With its prebuilt reports, you'll experience instant payback by providing your team with valuable information on the most commonly requested process and product metrics.

Improve Report Development Productivity

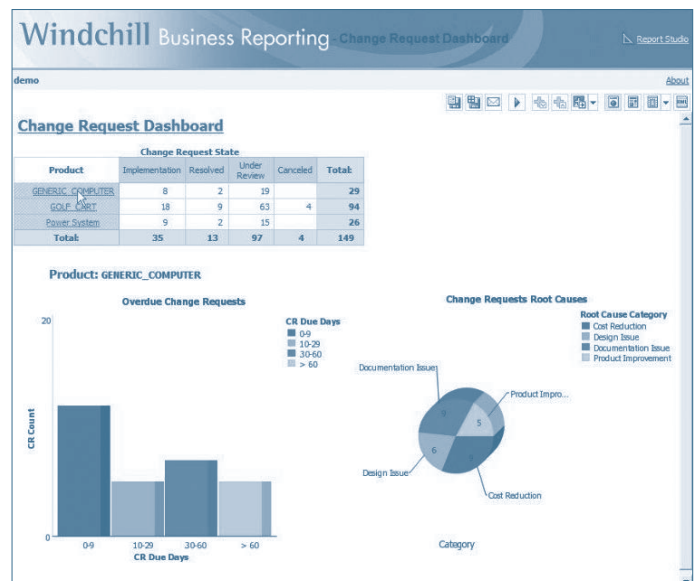

The tight integration between Windchill and Cognos plus the optional drag-and-drop report authoring tools can drastically reduce the time and cost of developing reports. Reports can also be automatically generated as well as securely emailed to predefined distribution lists.
